Two cutting edge keynotes and twenty Thinking School practitioner led workshops
Be part of a global gathering on metacognition and take back to your school how self-reflective, independent learners are being developed in classrooms across the world.

Key Speakers

Prof. Lee Elliot Major

Author of the EEF's Teaching and Learning Toolkit and the newly released 'What Works?', Lee will be opening the 13th International Thinking Schools Conference. As former CEO of the Sutton Trust and current Professor of Social Mobility at Exeter University, Lee is an acknowledged global authority on closing the social mobility gap. He will be speaking on how to allocate funding to improve the prospects of disadvantaged learners.

Rebecca Tigue

Head of School at the University of Birmingham School, Rebecca will be speaking on how the School has translated the work of the University of Birmingham's world leading Jubilee Centre for Character & Virtues into classroom practice.

Workshop Titles will include:

- Developing Thinking via Technology
- Raising Progress through Feedback
- OFSTED Thinking
- Reflecting on Dispositions

New to Thinking Schools?

We will be concurrently running an Introduction to becoming a Thinking School programme on 15th June - see programme outline here

"Incredible pedagogy, loads of take home ideas and very inspirational."
